

The ability for a customers to retain their wireless number when switching carriers.

Reason for not giving the wireless companies an extension.

As a small business owner (less than $100,000). The cost factor in changing to a different number,i.e. changing business cards, letterhead,yellow page ads, and past customer notification. These costs makes it very difficult to switch, when the current wireless service is providing poor service and/or the rate plan is not competitive. I feel that is fair that after I completed my initial contract,usually 24 months. I should have the right to change service providers without incurring additional expenses to my business.

I would be willing to be charged a reasonable one time fee of $10-$20 to for the right to retain my current number if I should decide to change wireless carriers. Thank you for the opportunity to express my concerns.

Respectfully,
Henry A. Shomber